The Riverside Industrial Park Superfund site is located on a 7.6-acre active industrial property on the banks of the Passaic River. After 1971, the site was subdivided into 15 lots, some of which have ongoing business operations. The sources of soil and groundwater contamination include historic site operations, accidental spills, illegal dumping, improper handling of raw materials and/or improper waste disposal. In 2009, at the request of NJDEP, EPA responded to an oil spill into the Passaic River that was eventually traced to two basement storage tanks in a vacant building on the site. Subject: Riverside public meeting flyer for FB?

Hey social media team –

I know approvals need to happen, but if possible, and if you deem appropriate, attached is a flyer (in English and Spanish) promoting the Riverside public meeting. Can we post to Facebook? City of Newark requested this so they could share it on their page. If we can't, I understand.

Thanks,
Shereen
